

Craig Shields Bio

Craig Shields serves as Section Chief for the California Department of Housing and Community Development's funding programs that consider the nexus between affordable housing and climate change. The Department's climate programs include Affordable Housing and Sustainable Communities, Transit-Oriented Development and the Infill Infrastructure Grant program. A native Californian, Craig is a graduate of the Washington University School of Architecture in St. Louis.