

Sarah Schear

Sarah Schear is a 4th year medical student at the University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine and plans to become a Pediatrician. She graduated in 2017 from the UC Berkeley - UCSF Joint Medical Program, where she completed a Master's Degree in qualitative public health research. Prior to medical school, she studied Anthropology at Amherst College, lived in India for two years, and worked with a psychiatrist in rural Alabama running supportive programs for his patients and the community. Her love for communities in India, Alabama and California on the front lines of the climate crisis motivates her to participate in climate activism. She is a co-Founder of California Climate Health Now and a leadership team member of Medical Students for a Sustainable Future.