

BEVERLY GROSSMAN PALMER joined Strumwasser & Woocher after serving as a law clerk for the Honorable Dorothy W. Nelson of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. Ms. Grossman Palmer represents clients in the fields of election law, land use and environmental law, economic regulation, and education law. She has appeared in both state court and administrative proceedings, and before local governments. She also advises clients on compliance with campaign finance and reporting laws as well as provides guidance and analysis on the initiative process.

Ms. Grossman Palmer received her J.D. from Yale Law School, where she was a Managing Editor of the Yale Journal of International Law. She also participated in the Community Lawyering Clinic and the Rebellious Lawyering conference. While in law school, Ms. Grossman Palmer clerked at the Center on Race, Poverty, and the Environment in San Francisco and at a major international law firm in Washington, D.C.

Before entering the legal profession, Ms. Grossman Palmer was a Senior Research Associate at the Environmental Law Institute in Washington, D.C., and a Research Assistant at ICF International in Fairfax, Virginia. Ms. Grossman Palmer graduated from Williams College.